Dear Charles:

As the year is ending, Sue and I reflect on the pleasant experience of working with your organization. It is with great pleasure that we convey our sincerely appreciation for your efforts in our projects.

Comments which we have received from our clients have been very complimentary and confirm our own thoughts pertaining to the professional manner in which your work was planned and carried out. We know that it took long, hard hours of work and considerable personal sacrifice to correlate the myriad details necessary to ensure the success of these projects. Your display of exceptional skill and resourcefulness in coordinating these complicated projects, is noteworthy. Your dependability, initiative, and talent to surmount difficulties in your path, enlivened those who come in contact with you. Your constant dedication and ability to complete tasks in a superior manner, is a direct reflection of the respect and support you are so deserving of.

We applaud you for these accomplishments and extend to you our sincere and personal wishes for a most happy Holiday and successful Year 2000.

Best regards,

DIGERONIMO, P.A.
